Objective(s)

- To learn about Chinese Hakka walled village architecture.
- Learn about the historical features of Hong Kong's intangible cultural heritage.

Brief Descriptions:

Teachers and children visited walled village to learn about Hakka architecture and culture and the living environment in the past. Inside the room, some furniture, handicrafts and agricultural tools from the Hakka walled villages in the 17th century were displayed so that the children could learn about the traditional culture of the long time ago through the actual objects.

Afterwards, the children visited the Intangible Cultural Heritage Protection Center to learn more about the intangible heritage of Hong Kong, such as the Bun Scrambling Hill and the Lion Dance, etc. The children actively participated in the guided tour and know more about the lion dance.
