Name of Activity

'Endangered Species Resource Center' Learning Day ~ Let's Protect 'Him, Her, It'

Objective(s)

- Children learn about protecting and cherishing nature's species and resources through visiting exhibitions.
- Through photography and create a booklet to promote awareness of protecting endangered species.

Brief Descriptions:

The first part of the activity is a guided tour session, where center staff introduce endangered species and the reasons for their endangerment to the children. Through the explanation, children learn how to protect these endangered species. The second part is free exploration time, during which the children visit different areas in the center and learn through sensory and direct experiences, such as listening to the call of the mynah bird, observing lizards and tortoises crawling, and observing tiger specimens. The children are particularly interested in the live pet area and will actively share their observations of the pets' actions with their teachers and peers.
