Discovering Nature: Tracing Shadows in the Sand

Objective(s)

- Let children immerse in nature and use their senses to explore the unique forms of sand grains.
- Through creative experiments, explore the different ways to create "footprints and shadows," and share personal feelings and finding.

Brief Descriptions:

The children arrived at Sham Shui Po Park and first went to the sand dune bunker area for shadow games. They explored and created various shadows, and used beach toys like shovels, sponges, and other toys to create their own games while exploring the sand grains. Additionally, the teachers led the children to the forest meadow area to play with blowing bubbles, and allowed them to use various playground facilities in the park such as swings, merry-go-rounds, rocking chairs, and water features to enjoy the diverse fun that these games provide.
