Through storytelling, children will gain a preliminary understanding of the unique lifestyle and culture of China's Mongolian ethnic group, fostering their appreciation and love for Chinese culture.

Brief Descriptions:

Teachers guided the children through the picture book Morin Khuur to learn about China's Mongolian ethnic group, introducing the unique characteristics of the grassland nomads. Using music and traditional instruments, the activity successfully engaged the children in the story. The event effectively introduced Mongolian culture and grassland traditions—such as yurts (Mongolian tents), horseback riding on the steppes, and ethnic costumes—all of which captured the audience's attention and deepened their appreciation for Chinese traditional arts.
